(Brockton, MA) – July 11, 2018 – HarborOne Bank announced today that it will open a Loan Production Office in Downtown Boston on July 16. The new Loan Production Office will be staffed by a seasoned team of veteran lenders and personal banking professionals with expertise in commercial solutions and a commitment to superior customer service. The office – at 20 Custom House Street - is the first for HarborOne in Boston.

“Opening an office in Boston is a natural next step for us and one that we have been planning for some time,” said James W. Blake, CEO of HarborOne Bank. “The tremendous growth in our Commercial Lending business over the last three years has proven to us that we can effectively compete in the space. The time is right to expand our business into the robust Boston market”

The Boston-based Loan Production Office will provide a wide range of commercial solutions including commercial real estate financing, working capital, term debt for equipment & leaseholds and cash management products. HarborOne will also continue to work with the Professional Services market in areas such as medical practices, law firms, CPA and other professional firms throughout Boston and the surrounding area.

The HarborOne Boston office will also be staffed with a personal banker working closely with the commercial team to deliver retail mortgage, home equity and deposit solutions.

“There is ample room in the Boston market for a bank committed to timely, effective solutions in the business lending space,” said Joseph F. Casey, President of HarborOne. “We feel the experience we provide our business and retail clients will be valued among companies and individuals in and around the city.”
